Nova Scotia Association of REALTORS® celebrates student success

July 5, 2016 – Nova Scotia: Three Nova Scotian students were awarded the Nova Scotia Association of REALTORS® (NSAR) Arnold G. Jones Bursary for their exceptional academics and community involvement. Each year NSAR bestows this Bursary on selected applicants who are graduating from high school and children or grandchildren of NSAR members. This year three winners were selected and will receive $3000.00 each.

“REALTORS® are avid volunteers in the community and committed to life long learning. The Selection Committee considers commitment to learning; involvement in school and community; maturity and responsibility; initiative and/or strength of character; and decisions toward higher education,” says Roger Sandford, President of NSAR. “It is very difficult for the Selection Committee as we are very fortunate to have a strong youth community who are dedicated to making Nova Scotia better for all of us while achieving their own personal dreams. Also coming into play in our decision making is work experience (if applicable), and difficulties overcome by the student.”

This year, the winners of the Bursary were: (Morgan) Lindsay MacDonald of Lockview High School in Fall River and twin sisters, Erin and Lindsey Coughlan –of Sir John A. MacDonald High School in Halifax.

The Arnold G. Jones Bursary Fund is named in honour of NSAR’s former Executive Officer who lost his battle to cancer in August 2012. Funding for the Bursary is raised through NSAR’s Annual Golf Tournament, held each June, and funds are awarded the following year.
